"All The World's Wargames" is divided into five sections. Immediately following this introduction is the main listing of board wargames, in alphabetical order. For each game, the publisher, period, game scale, price, and current availability are listed. Complete information is not available for all games; information from readers is welcomed. Section 3 lists games by publisher; for each publisher, the titles of the games are listed. Section 4 gives addresses and former addresses of known game publishers, while Section 5 lists games on which further information is badly needed. Many of the games in Section 5 are of at best dubious existence.

I have been asked how a game qualifies to be included in this catalog. Originally I had planned to include both boardgames and miniatures rules in the catalog. However, there are so many sets of miniatures rules which get such limited distribution that it would be virtually impossible to keep up with them. On the other hand, due to the large number of nationally distributed magazines devoted to them, boardgames are very easy to keep track of.

In order to be included, a game must satisfy several of the following criteria:

- 1) The game should have some form of gridded map-sheet (squares, hexes, or area type grids).
- 2) It should use some form of abstract counter for unit representation, though units can vary in size from individuals to entire armies.
- 3) Movement should be in discrete units and not over-regularized (e.g. like the knight's move in chess).
- 4) The rules should be specific enough that any new player can figure them out without the aid of a second player or umpire.
- 5) The game should have one or more definite scenarios which are completely independent from each other and from any other game.
- 6) The game must be complete in and of itself, though a few extensions to existing games are also included.
- 7) Borderline games published by established board-game companies are usually included.
- 8) Political games which have gameboards are usually included.
- 9) Computer games are not included.

I would like to thank Bob Zabik for the use of his directory of publishers and sources, as included at the back of this catalog. I would also like to thank the following people for their help with some of the more obscure titles:

George Phillies, Martin Campion, Cliff Sayre, and Walter Luc Haas.

If you know of any additions or corrections to this catalog, please contact:

 Post 1945 (P/45) 1945 to present
 Contemp (Con) present and immediate future
 Fan & SF (F&SF) Future and fantasy

Scale -- The scale of the battle represented by the game:

- Ind -- individuals (1 man, ship, plane...)
- S-U -- small units (1 squad or fire team, 1 flight, ...)
- Tac -- tactical (platoon - company)
- Opr -- Operational (battalion-regiment)
- L-S -- low strategy (division, map covers a country in area)
- H-S -- High Strategy (Corps-Army, map covers a continent)
- G-S -- Grand Strategy (covering the entire world)
- Ste -- Stellar (covers an entire solar system)
- Gal -- Galactic (covers a star cluster)

Price -- in U.S. Dollars

In Print Code:

"X" means that the game is out of print.
 "?" means that the game is probably out of print.

On Ordering Games

Most games can be ordered directly from the publishers for the catalog price. Most suppliers pay the postage/shipping themselves. However, Avalon Hill charges $1 postage and handling per game. Other sources of mail order games include Lou Zocchi, San Antonio Hobby, Flying Buffalo, Dave Casciano, and Balboa Game Company.

Simulations Publications offers 10% off per game for subscribers to "Strategy and Tactics" who order at least three games at a time. They also offer a 30% discount on all orders for games and equipment over $300. The two discounts cannot be combined.

Campaign magazine offers discounts on selected games each issue, but only to subscribers. Many hobby stores will give a 10% discount to clubs and individuals who purchase several games at a time.

The abbreviations appearing to the right of the date column are various codes which describe a game's period, scale, last known price, and an out-of-print indicator. The columns have the following meanings:

Period -- game period(s). The time period in which the game occurs. Shown either as a single entry or (if the game covers more than one era) as two abbreviations. The periods are

- Ancient (Anc) Ancient and Roman period (pre-300 AD)
- Dark Ages (D/A) Dark Ages and Renaissance period)
- 18th Cent (18th) 18th Century
- Napoleon (Nap) Napoleonic
- 19th Cent (19th) Nineteenth Century
- WW I (WW1) World War One (1900-1920)
